The Triumphal Entry

It must have been terrifying. Jesus and His crew were approaching the city of David, the holy city of God. The men with Him were aware something was up, but weren't sure exactly what it was.

When they reached the top of the Mount of Olives and looked over the city, they saw Jerusalem was full of visitors. It was Passover preparation time. Vendors were vending, parents were frustrated, and priests were sharpening their knives. It wasn't anything they hadn't seen before, except this time was different.

Jesus had told them what was going to be different about this time. He even got a little frustrated with Peter when the apostle said he would not allow anything to happen.

Peter knew. They all knew. This time was different.

I will be quoting the following excerpt in my sermon this morning. It is so good, I wanted you to be able to take it home with you.

"Forget any suggestion that Jesus was trapped. Erase any theory that Jesus made a miscalculation. Ignore any speculation that the cross was a last-ditch attempt to salvage a dying mission. For if these words tell us anything, they tell us that Jesus died...on purpose. No surprise. No hesitation. No faltering. No, the journey to Jerusalem didn't begin in Jericho. It didn't begin in Galilee. It didn't even begin in Bethlehem. The journey to the cross began long before. As the echo of the crunching of the fruit was still sounding in the garden, Jesus was leaving for Calvary."

And the Angels Were Silent", Max Lucado*
